

Employment Practices ALERT

Election Day Leave for Illinois Employees

October 25, 2012

November 6, 2012 is election day, and millions of Americans across the country will cast their vote for the next President of the United States, as well as on a number of other important issues. In Illinois, under certain circumstances, employees may be entitled to time off work for voting. The state's Election Code grants employees the right to take two hours of leave from work to vote between polling hours. To take advantage of this leave period, employees must make their requests before Election Day. Employers have the right to specify the hours during which employees can exercise voting leave, but should not otherwise limit employees' right to take such leave. Employers should consider informing employees of these requirements in advance of the election if absenteeism has been a problem on election days in the past.

For further information, please contact Alex Breland or your regular Hinshaw attorney.

Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP prepares this publication to provide information on recent legal developments of interest to our readers. This publication is not intended to provide legal advice for a specific situation or to create an attorney-client relationship. We would be pleased to provide such legal assistance as you require on these and other subjects if you contact an editor of this publication or the firm.

Copyright © 2012 Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP. All Rights Reserved. No articles may be reprinted without the written permission of Hinshaw & Culbertson LLP, except that permission is hereby granted to subscriber law firms or companies to photocopy solely for internal use by their attorneys and staff.

ATTORNEY ADVERTISING pursuant to New York RPC 7.1. The choice of a lawyer is an important decision and should not be based solely upon advertisements.